

Hello everyone, today I'm going to speak on the topic Uniqueness.

Every human being that has ever lived, or ever will live, is unique. You are truly one of a kind. We all know that we, as humans, share the usual bits and pieces that most of us have in common, such as certain essential body parts — a head, a heart, a brain, and so on. But the similarity ends there.

Your life experiences thus far have made you the person you are today. The way you were brought up by your parents and the things that you learned in your childhood have come together to make you different from everyone else. You may have learned some things in a similar way to other children. Those may share some of your talents and abilities, but there is no one who is identical to you, that's why even identical twins are different.

This attitude that everyone should be the same is stifling inventiveness and individual thinking. All of the celebrated actors, artists, musicians, mathematicians have become successful because they have only one thing in common and that is they dared to be different.

Thus you must celebrate the fact that you are unique and that you have a contribution to make to this world. When you pass on you will have inevitably made an impact on it and others will have been affected by your life and your presence here, whether you realize it or not.

Thank You!
